 - (b) forest inventory information becomes available that supports a recalculation in the harvest volume schedule;
 - (c) lands that were available for harvest by the licensee are no longer available for harvest;
 - (d) more forest products are destroyed than are accounted for by the allowed risk factors used in the calculation of the harvest volume schedule; or

“Appendix“PART I*Tables*“TABLE 1
[Section 99]Timber Dues

All dues rates for timber are payable per cubic metre of timber harvested. All diameter measurements are inside the bark.

Dues must be paid in Canadian dollars.

Softwoods – Classes S1a and S1b

Class S1a timber includes all white spruce, black spruce and lodgepole pine timber greater than 15 centimetres in diameter.

Class S1b timber includes all species of softwood timber other than white spruce, black spruce and lodgepole pine that are greater than 15 centimetres in diameter.

Dues are the amount D calculated in accordance with the following formula:

$$D = B + I$$

where:

B is the base rate of:

$2.60 per cubic metre for class S1a timber; or

$1.60 per cubic metre for class S1b timber; and

I is the incremental rate determined in accordance with the following formula:

$$I = (MP - $383) \times 0.254 \times IP$$

where:

MP is the quarterly average price of ‘Western Spruce Pine and Fir (SPF) 2x4-8 PET (precision end trimmed) Studs, Freight on Board (FOB) Mill’, as published in the RISI Random Lengths Lumber Report, converted to Canadian dollars;

(MP – $383) is deemed to be zero if MP is less than $383; and

IP is the incremental percentage determined in accordance with the following formula, not to exceed 30%:

$$IP = \frac{(2 \times (MP - $383))}{MP}$$

where MP and (MP – $383) are as set out above.

Softwoods – Classes S1ad, S1bd, S2 and S3

Dues are the base rate.

(1) Class S1ad

For all white spruce, black spruce and lodgepole pine timber greater than 15 centimetres in diameter and determined to contain defects in excess of the tolerances established for Class S1a timber in accordance with the Scaling Standard, the base rate is $1.00 per cubic metre.

(2) Class S1bd

For all species of softwood timber other than white spruce, black spruce and lodgepole pine that are greater than 15 centimetres in diameter and determined to contain defects in excess of the tolerances established in accordance with the Scaling Standard, the base rate is $1.00 per cubic metre.

(3) Class S2

For all species of softwood timber greater than 10 centimetres in diameter and less than or equal to 15 centimetres in diameter, the base rate is $1.00 per cubic metre.

(4) Class S3

No dues are payable for all species of softwood timber less than or equal to 10 centimetres in diameter.

Hardwoods – Class H1 (Oriented Strand Board)

For all species of hardwood timber greater than 10 centimetres in diameter and utilized in oriented strand board production, dues are the amount D calculated in accordance with the following formula:

$$D = B + I$$

where:

B is the base rate of $0.50 per cubic metre; and

I is the incremental rate determined in accordance with the following formula:

$$I = (MP - $327) \times 0.531 \times IP$$

where:

MP is the quarterly average price of 'Oriented Strand Board (OSB) 7/16 inch Western Canada, Freight on Board (FOB) Mill', as published in the RISI Random Lengths Panel Report, converted to Canadian dollars;

(MP – $327) is deemed to be zero if MP is less than $327; and

IP is the incremental percentage determined in accordance with the following formula, not to exceed 10%:

$$IP = \frac{(0.4 \times (MP - $327))}{MP}$$

where MP and (MP – $327) are as set out above.

Hardwoods – Class H1 (Pulp)

For all species of hardwood timber greater than 10 centimetres in diameter and utilized in pulp production, dues are the amount D calculated in accordance with the following formula:

$$D = B + I$$

where:

B is the base rate of $0.50 per cubic metre; and

I is the incremental rate determined in accordance with the following formula:

$$I = (MP - $766) \times 0.355 \times IP$$

where:

MP is the quarterly average price of 'Bleached Chemi-Thermo Mechanical Pulp (BCTMP) 80 Aspen - Delivered to China', as published by Brian McClay and Associates Inc., converted to Canadian dollars;

(MP – $766) is deemed to be zero if MP is less than $766; and

IP is the incremental percentage determined in accordance with the following formula, not to exceed 10%:

$$IP = \frac{(0.3 \times (MP - $766))}{MP}$$

where MP and (MP – $766) are as set out above.

Hardwoods – Class H1 (Other Hardwood Products)

For all species of hardwood timber greater than 10 centimetres in diameter and utilized in products other than oriented strand board and pulp production, dues are the base rate of $0.50 per cubic metre.

Hardwoods – Class H2

No dues are payable for all species of hardwood timber less than or equal to 10 centimetres in diameter.
